Market overview

Key benchmark indices edged lower in the week ended 2 December 2016, as weakness in global stocks played spoilsport towards the end of the week. The market gained in three out of five sessions of the week. After witnessing decent rise at the onset of the week, key indices witnessed selling pressure towards the tail end of the week. Investors maintained caution ahead of the crucial jobs data for November in US on Friday, 2 December 2016 and Italy’s constitutional referendum on Sunday, 4 December 2016 which could determine whether or not the country will remain in the euro zone. For the next week Nifty likely to trade in the range between 8150 -8250 in the upper side and 7950-7800 in the lower side.
